– Registration and ECAS Account –

These instructions are addressed to persons who will require access to accounts held on the EU Emissions Trading Scheme Union Registry. In case of any difficulties, please do not hesitate to contact the National Registry Administrator of Malta at:

emissions\_trading\_scheme@mra.org.mt

or, on:

Depending on whether you are a representative of an operator (of stationary installation) holding account (OHA), an aircraft operator holding account (AOHA), a person holding account (PHA) or any other relevant account, the National Administrator will be undertaking certain steps relating to the opening of the account and informing you accordingly. For the account opening to be successful and for you to get access to the account for which you have been nominated as a representative, the following instructions should be followed. Further instructions will be provided in due course.

Before the national administrator can create accounts in the Registry System you need to be registered as a registry user with Malta. Once your user designation is registered, the administrator can create your requested accounts.

The registration procedure consists of 3 steps:

If you do not have an ECAS login, you first need to create one before you can register to the Registry System:

1. On the Registry home screen, click First Time User (see screenshot below). The Enrolment page opens:

Step 3 - Complete your details in the Registry System

Once you have logged in with your ECAS login, the Registry System opens. In order to register, you must fill in your personal details. Please ensure you are operating on the Malta (MT) registry.

In the enrolment pane, click on [Fill in your personal details].

A Registration page appears in which you should complete your details:

In the registration form, you should enter your personal details and indicate your preferred language in which all communications between you and the National Administrator will be performed.

The Registry System also foresees a number of security measures to withstand fraudulent use of the application. Therefore, upon registration, you need to provide your credentials:

- ID type: select national ID card, special ID card, international passport or other.
- ID number: complete the ID number. In case of ID type “other”, you provide a description of the ID in plain text.
- Expiry date: complete the expiry date of your ID.
- Secret question and answer: complete a secret question and answer. They are a security measure for a National Administrator to verify your identity when contacting you.

After completing the details, click [Next] to continue. A summary page opens where you can verify all the details you completed. Once you verify that all the details are correct, click to [Submit] to continue.

After you have verified and submitted your personal details, the Registry System issues a unique registry identifier (URID). You will receive the URID (it is important to note that if you are registered with more than one Member State, you will receive a separate URID). When you login, your URID in the active Member State is shown in the enrolment pane.

The URID of a Registry System user allows that user to be appointed as an Authorized Representative (authorized representative, additional authorized representative or authorized representative with view only access) without having to disclose the identity of the user behind that URID. This is a security feature aimed at preventing malicious users from guessing information of opening illegitimate accounts.

It is very important that this URID is kept confidential between the user and the Registry administrator.
